- ✓ Achievement
- ✓ Cold Calling Initiative
- ✓ Competitiveness
- ✓ Sales Closing
- ✓ Sales Disposition

Estimated Time: 10 minutes

The Sales Achievement Predictor (SalesAP) is a sales aptitude test that measures personality traits that are critical to success in sales and sales-related fields. The test assesses traits that are not apparent in an interview or resume, such as inhibitions about cold calling, reluctance to ask for a sale, and poor motivation to follow through once on the job. It provides an overall recommendation about a candidate's suitability for sales work – either Not Recommended, Recommended, or Highly Recommended.

How Personality Tests Predict Success

People who “fit” in their jobs are more at ease and therefore more likely to excel. Job fit also makes it more likely that an employee will stay long-term in the role, increasing retention and reducing hiring costs across the entire organization. For sales roles, this translates into employees who are driven and achievement-oriented to close sales, and who are comfortable interacting with potential customers on a daily basis.

Scientifically Validated

The SalesAP has been extensively validated against actual sales performance, demonstrating that the test is highly predictive of job performance for sales-related positions. SalesAP results have also been shown to be statistically reliable, meaning that the test measures traits that are generally stable across an individual’s life.

No Right or Wrong Answers

There are no correct or incorrect answers on the SalesAP. All of the candidate’s responses come together to create a unique personality profile for that individual. Similarly, there are no “good” or “bad” traits - some traits and profiles are simply more associated with success for particular roles.

Case Study

One company used the SalesAP to increase revenue per day. Employees who were highly recommended by the test earned 25% more revenue per day than those who were not recommended for sales.

Revenue Per Day by SalesAP Score

Using the SalesAP for the 750 person staff would result in a sales volume increase of $4.8 million per year.
